

Connected and Collaborative Community Fabric: Core Value Chapter Synopsis

INTRODUCTION

- This is about connectivity and the fabric that binds the community together – it is a function of both physical spaces and collaborative platforms and approaches.
- The action areas around ‘building a collaborative and connected community fabric’ aim to create the connective tissue that will stimulate collaborative behavior.
- This is a fundamental building block of a modern community and helps embed the ideals of an inclusive and shared vision and decision making.

ISSUES/ EXISTING CONDITIONS/ CONSTRAINTS

- Changing demographics – Aging population, loss of younger population of adults, decline and loss of the Gullah Geechee community
- Gated communities impose varying degrees of restriction regarding access, including no public access and ‘pay-to visit’ access creating a ‘community within a community’ phenomena. Societal values change, the gated community concept might not be as appealing to younger generations
- Pockets of distrust due to historical inequalities and the ‘community within a community’ phenomena
- Gentrification of older neighborhoods
- Affordable housing
- Employers are facing significant challenges in meeting their employment needs.
- Perception of the quality of education and healthcare services to attract new residents and meet the needs of the aging population.
- Technology infrastructure limitations
- Lack of a centralized location for information about the community happenings and needs

1. Planning

Ensure the planning process is inclusive, collaborative and ongoing, responsive to changing circumstances and stakeholder priorities.

Keywords: Planning, Technology. Elements: Community Facilities, Population, Land Use... About this Goal:

- Builds alignment and focus within both the community and the planning outcomes
- Idea that “community unites around a commitment and plan for progressive change.”

- Community engagement
- Connectivity to external stakeholders: Building this connectivity will be important, as these external stakeholders offer direct access to expertise and resources that might help implement the vision. Plus, in many cases they are potential future residents.
